Dr. Daly said he had | and smell were different from the normal since made experiments upon beef subjected to treatment by boracle acid and had found It to give forth about as foul a smell as could well be imagined. Major Lee then read various reports made by Dr. Daly, concerning official inspections of the beef at the camps at Jacksonville. Lexington and Chickamauga. At all of these, he stated, the meat used generally looked well, but there was a universal complaint of its smelling badly. He had found the fresh beef to be apparently preserved by the injection of some chemical which destroyed its natural flavor, and which must, of necessity, have been injurious to the health of those eating it. It was, to his mind, impossible to preserve the meat without the use of acids and, apparently, the meat had been preserved "by the injection of chemicals to aid the work of defective cold storage." In one case he had found the odor similar to that of a dead human body, and in another, speaking of the odor, he said: "It was unnatural, mawkish, sickly, like that of a human cadaver after an undertaker had injected his embalming pre-Replying, Dr. Daly asserted that the chemicals were detrimental to the health, and they could only be used at the peril of those taking them. "No matter what authority says these Dr. Daly, emphatically.

Here Mr. Daly introduced a joint report made by Dr. Clark, chief chemist, and Dr. Hildebrandt, chemist of the geological survey, on an analysis made by them on residuum from the beef used on the Panama. In this report they said they had examined the powder furnished by Dr. Daly. Both the flame test and the tumerick paper test give distinct evidence of the presence of boracle acid they said. "We also obtained good reactions with ferric chloride, showing the presence of salicylic acid.'

In response to a general question, Dr. Daly said he had come into much informa ion confirmatory of what he had testified to, but which had come to him in a confacts. In truth a ban had been placed on ifty persons had spoken to him in corroboration of what he had said. These were the proprietors of slaughtering houses and plove. the manufacturers of chemicals. One manuacturer had told him that he would have been compelled to go out of business but for the patronage of the beef men. He said, efter some questioning, that he would as-these people to the court. On cross-examination by Colonel Davis, Dr. Daly said he had heard nothing when had made his first observation at Tampa in response to Colonel Weston's remarks to the beef which the colonel had hung in the sun. He said he had preserved the specimen from the beef on the Panama in an aerated bottle, locking it in a portmanteau He had given the specimen no treatment except to remove the fat by filtering through raw cotton. Asked if he was still as much convinced as when he made his report of the quality of the beef, he said: "I am stronger in my conviction than I ever was After Dr. Daily had completed his testimony Major Lee submitted a written refrom General Miles for the admission of the official reports of 147 men, representing twenty-six regiments, as testimony. It was stated that these reports all bore upon the question of the character of the beef supplied to the army and were pertinent to the inquiry. Dr. W. S. Devoe, of Chicago, an inspec-tor of the Agricultural Department, who is 1894 made an inspection of the packing houses of Chicago on complaints, was called to testify concerning his report, which could not be found. He proved very unwilling witness, saying that he saw no reason why statements concerning the facts of four or five years ago should be brought out here to the detriment of the business of a firm which had since, so far as he knew, obeyed the law. The court insisted, however, and he said the firm of Nelson Morris & Co. was the one which had been especially investigated. The testimony had been given mostly by discharged and disgruntled employes and was to the effect that the carcasses of cattle had been taken from the tanks and placed on the local markets. The findings had not been conclusive. There had been no evidence that the firm had connived at this disposition of the carcasses of animals, and there was a denial of the complaint by the firm. Dr. Devoe said he had at the time been reasonably well satisfied that the law had not been complied with and that he had reported to the department that there was oundation for the complaint.

During the day the board sent a reply to General Miles, saying it would take the Dr. Daly then referred again to the re- matter of his proposition to supply more witnesses under consideration, but intimating that the board did not require further testimony relating to the canned roast beef. HOT AND RAINY SEASONS. United States Troops Will Not Suffer

Seriously by Sickness. WASHINGTON, April 4.-War Department officials look upon the approach of the wet season in the Philippines as likely to be an important, if not decisive, factor in determining the character of the military movements during the next six months. This period of rains and storm is no new and untried danger, for the United States season last summer. Major Simpson, chief the end came was Mr. Leland's son, Charles of the Bureau of Military Information, was then on the staff of General Green and learned from experience how far this wet the men and retarded military operations. Generally speaking, he says men were up to their knees in mud and water during July and August when our trenches were drawn around Manila. But while this was a great personal inconvenience, it did not cause any material increase in the sick rate. About the worst feature was that the stretches of come here to aid in a settlement. quagmire made it next to impossible to execute military movements on a large scale. The wet season does not begin, as a rule, until June, so that it is about two months before its effects will be seriously the head of the hot season. The drenching rains begin in June. The hottest weather is in May, although it never goes above 100 degrees. Gradually this merges into the heavy rains and storms of June, the wet season lasting for six months. The season does not come on abruptly, but is a gradual transition, until everything is in a condition of soak. Last summer the first expedition of United States troops landed about July 1, and by > that time the wet season was well under way. The men were sent into the trenches for twenty-four hours and then relieved. In this way the regiments would be moved up every morning, and for that day and night would stand in the knee-deep rain and mud. But it would have been difficult, if not impossible, to have kept troops exposed to such conditions for any extended time. The Astor battery was one of the bodies serving during part of the rainy season. Captain March, one of the officers of the battery, was here recently, and in speaking of the sick rate during the wet season, said that it was kept down to 4 per cent. This is considered very low, even under favorable circumstances, and is taken to offset some reports as to the effect of the wet season. the strict sanitation enjoined upon the American forces. Malaria and typhoid abounds, so that our troops were made to drink boiled water. Major Simpson says that at no time did the malaria or typhoid assume an epidemic form. It is the general belief that General Otis will complete his present campaign before the wet season opens and confine his efforts

The steamer Norfolk, also bound for San Francisco, had preceded her to sea, and, seeing the accident, sent back her two boats and succeeded in rescuing the following: William Backwood, chief engineer; Clyde Lightner, first assistant engineer; William Grip, fireman; S. C. Bohall, steward; William Black, seaman; Howard Smith, passenger from Scotia.

The lost passengers are: M. O. Buzon Peter Fry, E. O'Brien and E. J. Boland Buzon was a tight-rope performer, and it is supposed that his home was in San Francisco. Fry was manager of a creamery at this county. E. O'Brien was going to San Francisco to fill a situation. E. J. Boland was a printer. The names of all the seamen lost are not yet known. The drowned include, however, the captain, F. B. Anderson, the second officer, name unknown; P. E. Capolla, cook, and A. Johnson, seaman. Capt. F. B. Anderson was master of the vessel and his home is in San Francisco. He has a wife, but no children.

The life-saving crew started out immedi ately, but before they could reach the wreck a man and two women rushed across the spit and, throwing a line, succeeded in bringing three men ashore-Peter Hanson fireman; Peter Johnson, first mate; W. C. Maser, passenger. There were six passengers and thirteen in the crew, and all were lest but nine. The vessel lies bottom up and is pounding in the breakers north of the south jetty. She will come ashore before long. The beach is strewn with wreckage, boxes of butter, shingles, and one trunk, broken open, was found, also a lifepreserver, badly battered.

The Chilkat was a screw steamship, built in Astoria in 1890 for the North Pacific Steamship Company, of San Francisco, She was 105 feet long, 20-foot beam and her net tonnage was 206. For the past few years she had been under command of Captain Anderson and was engaged in the coast trade, both for passengers and freight.

TWENTY-ROUND CONTEST

FIGHT BETWEEN DAN CREEDON AND TOMMY WEST DECLARED A DRAW.

Points Seemed to Be in Favor of the Former, but Both Men Were Game to the End of the "Mill."

NEW YORK, April 4.- The twentyround bout between Dan Creedon, of Australia, and Tommy West, of this city, which took place to-night in the arena of the corporation of the American Smelting and | Lenox Athletic Club, was declared a draw by the referee. West was lucky in getting an even break, as Creedon certainly was to-day. The company is empowered to entitled to a favorable verdict. Both men mine, smelt and refine ores, minerals and | put up a very fast and gamey contest, but Credoon's cleverness was so pronounced that the majority of the onlookers felt that the Australian was entitled to a decision in his favor. The attendance was only fair. Creedon weighed 160 pounds and West 158. In the first round Creedon cut out the work, landing hooks on the face and neck, while West failed to land effectively. In the seend round West sized up Creedon and landed hard several times, Creedon, however, giving back as good as he got. Round three was quiet tame, but in the fourth both got blood, West's upper lip being cut and Creedon's nose responding to a hard right. In getting away from one of Creedon't rushes West got his legs twisted and Creedon put him on his back with a wellplaced right on the chest. West cut loose in the next round and forced the pace, landing a right-hand swing over the kidneys. Creedon sent in a hard left on the face. which made West more cautious. In round six Creedon was cut over his left eye and bled freely.

Honors were even in round seven, but in the next Creedon's repeated blows over the eye forced West to hold, and he was cautioned by the referee. The next two rounds were soft, but in the eleventh West easily had the best of some hot exchanges. In the succeeding round both men did a lot of holdmuch damage. Creedon forced matters in port of Havana for March were $887,128, beround fourteen, sending his left to the face. TRENTON, N. J., April 4.-Articles of in- | face. At the close of the round Creedon hooked his left to the jaw, and West's knees bent as if they had hinges on them. In round eighteen Creedon swung his right flush on the jaw, which made West blink and Creedon had the call when the gong sounded. In round nineteen West let his left fly to the body and jabbed it again on the face. Creedon placed a hard left on the face and repeated the blow with increased force. West, in a clinch, sent a heavy left to the body and Creedon landed In round twenty Creedon led left for the face. West broke ground and slipped to the floor, When West regained his feet Creedon
